Archbishop to meet Young Volunteers

This evening, Mons. Archbishop Paul Cremona will be meeting several young people who have been involved in voluntary work, both in Malta and abroad, during this year. This activity has been commissioned by the Diocesan Youth Commission (KDŽ) to two groups: SPYS (Salesian Pastoral and Youth Service) and ĊAM (Ċentru Animazzjoni Missjunarja Żgħażaġh). Amongst those present there will be young people who have done voluntary work in Ethiopia, Italy, Albania, Guatemala, India, Kenya and Peru` and several others.

A similar meeting has taken place on the 12th of May where the Archbishop met these young people to encourage them in the voluntary experiences that they were preparing to have during the Summer months. Tonight's theme shall be "Blessed are you...". The evening shall be filled with various experiences, discussions, an address by the Archbishop, music from the band Footprints and also a moment of fellowship.

The event shall start at 19.30 and will take place at Sgħajtar Pastoral Centre, Naxxar.
